

LATIN GRAMMAR HEAD-START

Six foundations to learn before class gets there

Name: _____ Date: _____

1. Word roles

1. Underline the subject and circle the object: The enormous furry dog chased the frightened little cat.

2. Label S, V and O: Marcus carries the water.

3. Write your own subject-verb-object sentence.

2. Endings are role labels

1. puella puerum amat. Who loves whom? Explain which endings helped.

2. puerum puella amat. Has the meaning changed? Why?

3. High-frequency words

1. Match puer, puella, aqua, via, amicus with: girl, road, boy, friend, water.

2. Translate: puella aquam portat.

4. English grammar

1. Define noun, verb and adjective in your own words.

2. In 'The small dog runs quickly', identify the adjective and adverb.

5. Word families

1. Write one English relative of each: aqua, video, audio, porto.

2. What might 'portable' have to do with porto (I carry)?

6. Tiny translations

1. Translate: canis currit.

2. Translate: puer canem videt.

3. Translate: puella aquam portat.

4. Explain how an ending helped you solve one sentence.

PARENT / TEACHER ANSWER GUIDE

Ask 'How do you know?' as well as checking the final answer. Accurate reasoning matters more than a lucky answer.

1. Word roles

Subject: The enormous furry dog. Object: the frightened little cat. Marcus = S; carries = V; water = O.

2. Endings

The girl loves the boy in both orders. puella is nominative; puerum is accusative.

3. Words

puer boy; puella girl; aqua water; via road; amicus friend. The girl carries water.

4. Grammar

A noun names; a verb expresses action/state; an adjective describes a noun. small = adjective; quickly = adverb.

5. Families

Examples: aquatic, visible/video, audible/audio, portable/transport. Portable means able to be carried.

6. Translation

The dog runs. The boy sees the dog. The girl carries water. Explanations should refer to endings/roles.
